House of Commons Committee on Veterans Affairs by Len Starkey of McGill, G. P. Laganiere, University of Montreal, J. Testart, University of Western Ontario, and G. E. King, Ontario Training and Rehabilitation Institute, all members of the seven-man National Council.

ASK INCREASES TO $80, $120
In the briefs, the National Conference of Student Veterans, which represents over 20,000 veterans attending 26 Canadian Universities plus vocational training institutes from coast to coast, is asking that monthly maintenance grants to student ex-servicemen be increased to $80 for single veterans and $120 for married veterans; that the Government adopt immediate and long-term measures to ease the present acute accommodation problem; that the improvement of educational facilities be brought into effect; and that a policy of Full Employment be recognized as the cornerstone of the Canadian rehabilitation program.

ARRANGED BY LEGION
In attendance at the actual presentation of the briefs by the four-man student veteran committee will be leading figures of the Canadian Legion Dominion Command. J. C. G. Herwig, general secretary of the Legion, has been instrumental in making the final arrangements for the meeting.

OTTAWA MEETING OF STUDENT VETS
Friday evening, January 18, a public meeting of Ottawa student veterans from the University at Ottawa, Carleton College, St. Patrick College and vocational training institutes will be addressed by the Canadian Legion executives and the representatives of the N.C.S.V. Council, on rehabilitation problems which affect both student and non-student veterans.

DAVID LEWIS

Socialism Topic Of Lewis Talk In Union Today

Political Science Club Sponsors The Meeting In Ballroom At 8:15

David Lewis, national secretary of the C.C.F. party, will arrive in Montreal from Ottawa this afternoon to address the Political Science Club in the Union Ballroom at 8:15 tonight. "Socialism and Freedom" will be the subject of his address.

Although he could not speak English when he came to Canada at the age of twelve, Mr. Lewis obtained his Arts and Laws degrees at McGill University, graduating with great distinction. While at McGill, he was president of the Debating Union and of the McGill Labour Club (which was disbanded in 1935).

He was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship and concluded his studies in England. While at Oxford University, he was President of the Oxford Labour Club, and was also elected President of the Oxford Union—the equivalent of the McGill Students Society. He was the first and only Canadian to be so honored.

In 1937, Mr. Lewis was elected national secretary of the C.C.F. He is co-author with Frank Scott of the publication on C.C.F. policy—"Make This Your Canada."

Today's meeting is one of a series of the present campaign held by the Political Science Club to bring to McGill students various outstanding political figures. The executive of the club has announced that all students are cordially

'Bisonburgers' Now Winnipeg Dish U. of Manitoba Mascot Is Cause

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 16.—(CUP)—As a sequel to the arrival of "Kanna Keena", the live Buffalo mascot of the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg food stores are now featuring "Bisonburgers". This is considered not only a tribute to Kanna but a salute to Manitoba students.

A city-wide search for buffalos is now reported under way. A Winnipeg Free Press food editor said that buffalo meat in local shops came from Elk Island. Fifty out of the four hundred slaughtered there were purchased by a Winnipeg meat packing house.

"University of Manitoba students suggest 'Wimpy' eat bisonburgers. Unrationed buffalo still roam Canada and the United States." This

B.C. Mock Parliament Against Political Clubs

Vancouver, January 16.—(CUP)—A CCF Mock Parliament Group here has expressed its opinion that the establishment of political clubs on the campus would bring "Professional politicians and party stooges to campus under guise of students."

This discussion came about as a result of agitation on the part of Labor Progressive and Progressive Conservative students for political clubs on the campus.

The Mock Parliament Group expressed its belief that with the increase in the number of students enrolled at the university, unity is essential and it will be damaged by the establishment of such political clubs.

Laval Newspaper States Its Views On Women Doctors

Intrusion By Females Into Medical Field Regarded Favourably

This article appeared originally in the French language Le Carabin of Laval University. This summary gives a sidelight on French-Canadian ideas on Women at University, with particular reference to Medical students.

"We must admit the fact that the foolish ambition to place herself in rivalry to men is far from a woman's mind. She now seeks to cooperate with him on an intellectual plane and to help him in his life's work."

"Like all students, she has not the right to be a 'dilettante' in her studies or to work only for her personal culture. The young woman who is conscious of her influence and her responsibilities towards society should turn to professional fields where she will do good, yet safeguard her charm and femininity."

"Should a girl choose to consecrate herself to medicine, what are your objections? If one day she must choose between a husband and medicine and manages to combine the two, you can only congratulate her on her good choice. Would you be scandalized if the woman doctor instead of spending boring hours in the stores and the movies, wants to spend some time relieving human suffering?"

"The alarming proportion of unhappy marriages in the professions, particularly the medical profession, could easily be due to the fact that the man at home does not find the sympathy and encouragement which can only come with a knowledge and understanding of his work. We believe that a woman doctor would be most likely to marry a doctor."

"The love of money is not a factor in a woman's choice of a profession. Many men think of a career as a means to make money surely and quickly, and judge the woman as cutting across their ego and their ambitions."

"To be happy, one must live intensively, and it is for a richer and more fruitful life that you find young women at the University."

Council Head At Dawson Resigns Post

Engineering 1 President Also Quits Office

In a special statement to 'The Daily' last night, Clayton Thompson said that he was resigning owing to pressure of work.

Circumstances particular to Dawson, he indicated, make the amount of work involved in the position of President of the Students' Society so great that it is impossible to study adequately.

It is not expected that a general campus election will be held to fill the now vacant presidency immediately. An election had been planned for February so that the Council which would be chosen at that time would be able to carry on through the summer term.

It seems likely that the present council will reshuffle itself, and carry on until the scheduled election can take place.

St. John's, Que., Jan. 17.—(Special to The Daily)—Dawson College President Clayton Thompson and Engineering President Edward de Jean have resigned from their positions, and they will be succeeded by Peter G. Hadrill, it was revealed last night.

The vice-presidency post vacated by Hadrill will be left vacant at present. The new president, formerly the Engineers' representative on the student ruling body, served for over three and one-half years in the armed forces, prior to which he attended Lower Canada College and McGill University. "Her" two latest resignations mark the dissolution of the original council elected in October, Ward Smyth, B.Sc. 1 president, having tendered his resignation in December. The pressure caused by their studies was given as the reason for all three resignations.

The new council has announced that a general campus election will be held in mid February so that new students who arrived in January might have an opportunity to select their own representatives. The purchase of two 16 mm. moving picture projectors by the council, was also revealed. It is hoped by the group that films will be displayed at the college shortly.

Former President Thompson, during his three month tenure of office, was responsible for the organization of many campus functions. A canteen and snack bar were opened, moving pictures were introduced, and a dance was held under

President Approves Medical School Plans

Vancouver, January 15.—(CUP)—Pre-med students at the University of British Columbia have just completed a brief designed to forward the establishment of a Medical School on their campus.

President Mackenzie has expressed his approval of the proposed program and has given the necessary sanction to its implementation.

Dr. Dulman, of the Department of Bacteriology and Preventative Medicine is to leave soon to make a survey of various medical schools both in Canada and in the United States.

The University of British Columbia long has felt the need for a medical school so that those taking a pre-med course there would not have to go to other universities to complete their education.

Resident Students Of Dawson College Hear Regulations

New Set Of Rules Cover Every Phase Of Campus Activities

By BERNARD COOPER

The inmates of Dawson College have been treated, by the Vice-Principal's office to a new set of reading material. The riot act has been read, and a five-page mimeographed set of rules and regulations was yesterday made available under the title of "Notes and Instructions". The rules and regulations, wittily referred to by an ex-flyer now serving his sentence of exile at Dawson as "Station Standing Orders", are divided into seven sections of 6-8 rules each. The seven sections, "Administration and General", "Fire and Other Hazards", "Sleeping Quarters", "Dining Hall", "Academic", and "Campus Facilities" deal with almost every aspect of campus life imaginable.

The new set of laws begins with a short foreword by Vice-Principal Gillson extolling the advantages of a resident university, and explaining the need for the rules. Then follow the "Administration" section of the pamphlet, including the office hours of the administration offices, a statement of parts of the campus "out-of-bounds", and various regulations regarding the use of fire extinguishers for water-fights, the use of beverages other than water, and the conduct of students in the fair city of St. John's, Que.

The sections on "Fire", and

Principal Declares Appointment Of James Wilson as Governor

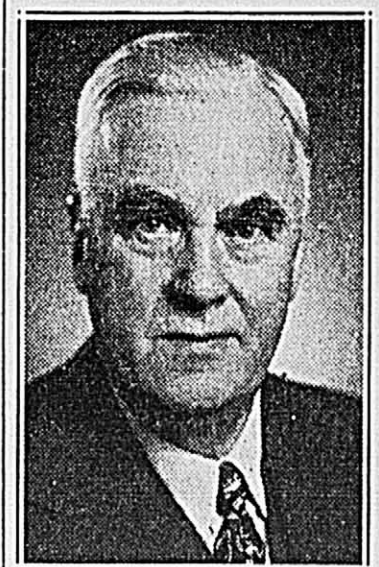

The appointment of James Wilson, president of Shawinigan Water and Power Company, as a governor of McGill University, was announced yesterday by Dr. James following a meeting of the Board of Governors. He has been named to fill the vacancy caused last November by the death of Dr. S. G. Blaylock, at the time chairman and past president of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited.

Mr. Wilson was born in Scotland and educated at the Crichton School, Sanguhar. He first entered the banking business and worked six years with the Royal Bank of Scotland in Sanguhar, later transferring to the Mercantile Bank of India in London.

He came to Canada in 1902 and was associated with Drummond McCall and Company here in Montreal. In 1911, he became chief accountant for the Shawinigan Water and Power Company. From this position he progressed to the office of secretary, director, and in 1933, that of vice-president of the firm. Four years later, he became general manager and director, and in 1939 succeeded the late Julien A. Smith to the office of president.

Mr. Wilson is president of several Quebec Power firms including the Canadian Light and Power Company. In addition he is president of United Securities Limited, a fellow of the Chartered Institute

Hectic Rivalry Revival Expected As Teams Clash

By J. T. PIPER

McGill's entry in the Senior Intercollegiate Hockey League goes into action for the first time tomorrow night on home ice when it faces the Université de Montréal's famed Carabins. With plenty of experience behind them, Dave Campbell's boys are certain that they will walk away with this game, especially since their opponents dropped their last tilt to Toronto Varsity 16-5 last week.

FIRST LEAGUE GAME

This game marks the beginning of a hectic schedule for the Redmen, for they only play some six games in the Intercollegiate League and must take every one if they are to be sure of taking top honours. With this pressure on them the McGill boys will be giving it all they have got right through the season, so it is reasonable to believe that each game they play will be well worth seeing.

With their bitter experience of last week the Carabins will be out there tomorrow night doing their best to wipe out that drastic mark on their post-war hockey record. With two teams really out to gain their first victory in the league, the game should be a real scrap from start to finish.

MINGIE TO DRESS

It has been announced that Coach Dave Campbell will dress Walter Mingie as a utility man who will probably be used both on the forward and defence lines. The first line of the Hale brothers and Sinclair, the second line of Spiller, Pierson and O'Connor, together with the defence of Heron, Broderick and Gosselin will also be dressed for this classic.

PRE-WAR RIVALRY

If the memory goes back to the good old pre-war days, it will recall the tremendous rivalry between the University of Montreal and McGill. It is to be expected that this old-time spirit will be renewed Friday night with all its vigor. Win or lose, the Carabins are followed by an enthusiastic crowd of supporters who are renowned for their hearty voices and effervescent spirits. McGill will need every supporter she can get at this game to cheer her team on to its first victory.

Although outclassed in their game against Toronto, the University of Montreal put up a great fight and were quite willing to mix it with their rivals from Toronto. A home-town game will mean a great deal to both teams, for victory before the home crowd means a great deal to any outfit.

Taking place in the Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium, on February 1, the Formal will start at 10:30 p.m. and continue till 3 a.m. Announcements concerning

An Attitude for National Publicity

Today, with thousands of men returning after many an eventful year spent outside Canada, a surprisingly large number of them are turning to the fields of radio and journalism as a livelihood. After the fundamentals of these professions have been learnt, many of these men begin to realize how great a task the newspapers and radio have to fulfil in Canada both for interior consumption and for abroad.

With the war Canada has suddenly become a far greater nation than she has ever been before. Her war effort, her industrial and agricultural evolution, have certainly warranted a tremendous step forward. The question now arises whether Canadians have acquired an intellectual outlook equal and proportional to the material advances of their country. It is quite natural that no miracles can be expected, and that many a Canadian has only just begun to wake up to the realization that his country is a major force in world affairs.

It is now up to the newspapers and the radio to help Canadians towards becoming aware of their country's change of status; beyond that, it is up to them to bring to the attention of the world the fact that both Canada and Canadians have undergone and are undergoing a great change.

Many a Canadian radio- and newspaperman has realized that this tremendous task lies before him. But no sooner has he sent himself this task than he begins to wonder how such an intangible factor can be transformed into practical aspects of radio and newspaper work. At his disposal are the two modern instruments of public information and education, but how is he to use them to "sell" Canada to Canadians and to the rest of the world? How is he to "highlight" the daily events taking place in this country in a way which will make it clear that Canada has attained nationhood?

Coming back from years spent overseas, his first reaction will be to compare Canada to Europe. This is a dangerous trap into which many are prone to fall. In doing so, he finds that Canada does not bear comparison with Europe. For many hundreds of years that continent has changed and developed under the greatest possible intellectual and political stress and has thus attained a state of maturity to which Canada can not possibly measure up to. Moreover, many national groups have lived in Europe under the constant pressure of political conflict, thus producing, of necessity, many aspects of a national culture.

With growing horror and disappointment Canada's "national salesman" looks about him, and finds his country without a national culture of any kind; all he sees is a vast mass of land obstructed by a difficult climate and hampered by a national inferiority complex. How is he to show that this country is a nation when he is unable to find any plausible intellectual pegs whereupon to hang his arguments? Maybe, he begins to think, this is all wrong, maybe this country has not reached nationhood and is merely vast and empty. We venture to say that he would be wrong in thinking such thoughts.

If Canada is compared with Europe or even

OUR RESPONSIBILITY

by Betty Brewer

No-one will deny that the social problems of a city are the responsibility of every citizen. If the lives of the less fortunate are to be made more than a mere existence—if our community is to be made a better place in which to live—then those of us who do not share their lot must assume the responsibilities placed upon us.

The Amalgamated Charities (The Catholic Charities, The Jewish Charities and the Welfare Federation) is an organization which has pledged itself to better conditions among those who are not blessed with many of the things which we at McGill consider necessities. But this cannot be done without financial assistance. It is up to those who can do so to provide the wherewithal to carry on the good work.

The chief aim of the Amalgamated Charities is to improve the conditions which beset the underprivileged of the community by replacing despair with hope in home life. Merely giving financial aid is not the full scope of its activities. Rather it stresses the strengthening of family ties, the promotion of good citizenship, the increase of recreational facilities for youth and the general betterment of environment.

More specifically, it deals with family welfare, child care, character-building, and health. Trained personnel handle the four main types of work. With the idea in mind that good citizenship begins in the home, the Amalgamated Charities concentrates on keeping families together, in helping them to live and grow in harmony.

In addition, the group's services include the placing of children in foster homes, caring for children of working mothers, the training of adolescents and the assisting of unmarried mothers. Guidance and protective care are provided for neglected, dependent or delinquent children.

A great emphasis is placed upon the proper training of youth, and an effort is made to place the best recreational facilities at their disposal—to give them informal education and recreation. Here is where the Amalgamated Charities has at its command a great force in the fight against juvenile delinquency.

Through their services, too, the sick, infirm and afflicted are given treatment or are cared for. The aged are placed in rest homes, and the sick are treated no matter what the disease.

We at McGill can show our understanding of the value of the service done by the Amalgamated Charities, by giving generously in the forthcoming campaign. By so giving we can help insure the continuation of the good work.

A Fantasy

I could not love, yet each fibre in your voice
Moved my heart in that forgotten way
That creates a passion overwhelmed with music
Sparkling with the symphony of a spring-time day.

"Tis spring"—you said—"its melody and its life,
Spring pleading now for free and human breath
That grapples the clinging chords of every heart,
That wakes and holds each lover's soul from death."

"Love me"—you said—"love me with all the passion
in your heart,
Seek harmony in every cloud that floats on skies
above,

And kiss, and grasp, and hold secure each tender
note of peace,
For life is but a lingering hope, our love its token—and I love."

Yes, I loved, I loved the world that gave me you,
The Spring, that caused my heart to say words, before unspoken,

And as I think and ponder now, remember dear,
you said,

"Life is but a lingering hope and our love its token."
But that love is no more and we are lost.

—SHIRLEY GROVER.

Ending

by Alice Benett

The day is hanging up in trees
In turn, these hanging, pale
And paler, blue and bluer, till
Its breath is stopped and light shall fall,
And this uneasy wind shall die
Among the strangling trees;
I wait for certainty of loss
To mourn another dying, more than these.

the United States, it is quite possible that the comparison is bleak. But such a comparison is quite impossible for the reasons outlined above. Canada has developed in a completely different sphere than Europe. There seems no reason on earth why we should be ashamed of that fact. Her national picture is built up on historical, geographical and cultural factors entirely different to those of any other nation.

When a radio program or a newspaper is attempting to paint a fair picture of Canada's development, it must point to the very absence of the usual types of media to which a change can ordinarily be attributed. It is not necessarily to our credit when our country has achieved something which is comparable to another nation; its very difference may be far more creditable.

The function of today's radio and newspaper in Canada is then, to point to the differences that make Canada a nation. There is no future in apologizing for a lack of similarities with other nations, or of capitalizing on a few inconsequential points of similarity.

THE DAILY MEETS

LA COMTESSE DE PANGE

by Josette Marion

"What's the correct procedure for meeting a Countess?" was the question foremost in my mind as I stood in the lobby of the Ritz Carlton waiting to interview Countess Jean de Pange. Still pondering over this I dropped the telephone receiver three times in the process of phoning her room. "Come right up," she told me. "It's very warm and comfortable here and we shall have our talk."

This first remark was characteristic of the entire interview. It would be hard to meet a more friendly and sympathetic person than Countess de Pange and her quick smile and charming manner put me completely at ease.

"Now, what can I tell you?" she asked, shaking my hand enthusiastically and waving me to a chair. "I've just come from Wellesley—that's a lovely college. I was there for a week and I would have liked to stay two or three weeks. Everyone was so very nice. It has been my dream to come back to the United States since we were here in 1931. My brother was head of the French branch of the Cincinnati Society and we were invited to the Yorktown celebration because one of our ancestors fought in the Revolutionary war. You know—Lafayette?"

Rather overwhelmed to discover the Countess was not only a great-granddaughter of Madame de Stael but also related to Lafayette, I asked if she would tell me a little of the family history.

The Broglie family came from Italy at the time of Mazarin and, already famous, they further distinguished themselves as soldiers, diplomats and ministers of France. "In each generation there have been at least two or three great men," the Countess told me. Three were marshals of France; her father and great-grandfather were prime ministers and ambassadors and the latter married Madame de Stael. For the last thirty or forty years they have not had much to do with French politics and have instead directed their efforts towards science and literature. Both of the Countess' brothers are members of the Academie Francaise and the Academie des Sciences and the younger won the Nobel prize.

The Countess was started on her literary career from the example of Madame de Stael. She wrote novels and stories while very young but the family discouraged her literary ambitions as improper for a girl of her class. After she married, her husband, Count Jean de Pange, encouraged her to do something serious with writing. "The first thing he told me was that I didn't have enough education," she said, "and so I went back to school. Later, when I wanted to lecture and travel, I went back again, and got my degree at the Sorbonne."

Her first book was published in 1921 and dealt with the Alsatian question. It came out in serial form in "La Revue de Deux Mondes" and immediately established her reputation as an authoress. She wrote several other novels and then, after looking through the family papers and archives, decided to write studies in literature, and began a series of works on Madame de Stael which won her a doctorate at the Sorbonne. "My husband always helped me," she said. "Every year we both had a book—both of us."

Count Jean de Pange himself is a historian and for a time was occupied with work in the League of Nations. Subsequently both the Countess and her husband worked against the Nazis and devoted themselves to helping German friends in their escape from that country. With the beginning of the war, the Countess and her husband moved to Paris and they remained there until after the liberation.

The Countess was very enthusiastic about McGill, and plans to send her eldest son here to study. Her talk today, in Room 20 of the Arts Building at 12 a.m. will deal with "Defense de L'esprit sous L'occupation" and although she is going to speak in French she assured me she would speak very slowly and distinctly "so that everyone will understand."

LETTER FORUM

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Dear Sir:

I noted with horrified amazement the fact that the ACS Formal is to cost terpsichorean fans the by no means puny sum of seven dollars per couple, and I wondered, not how many students would be able to go at that price, but how vastly many more, particularly veterans, would be prevented from going. The Junior Prom charges five dollars, and makes money. Why the higher price and who is Bob Chester anyhow?

Certain other things come to mind with the reading of such news. For many years the Arts Undergraduates' Society, out of its funds ($1 per student) maintained a free telephone in the smoking room of the Arts Building. What happened to that? Who takes the cut on the pay phones now installed in the Commerce Wing? With the huge increase in enrolment this year is the A.U.S. so much poorer? Total enrolment in Arts and Science this year is 1455 men and 800 women (McGill Daily, Oct. 24, 1945). This gives a minimum of $1400 to spend for the year, assuming that the women's fees go into a separate fund. It would be interesting to see published some sort of financial statement by the Arts Undergraduates' Society. Just how and why is its income distributed?

Coming back to the Formal, Informal discussion with a member of the Committee reveals the fact that $2,000 is being spent for the orchestra of some guy named Bob Chester. Spending a sum like that for a purpose like that is nothing less than a crime nowadays. And for these benefit is the money to be spent? For the 2,700 undergraduates of the Faculty of Arts and Science? Hardly. There are only 550 tickets available, and these will naturally go to the privileged small minority that can afford seven dollars plus the cost of formal clothes plus corsage plus taxi plus all other incidentals to a formal dance. I doubt again whether many veterans will be able to spend a week's living allowance on an ACS dance.

The claim is made that the costly dance, with an American band, etc., will raise the prestige of the Undergraduate Societies involved. Prestige for what? The function of such societies is to be useful for their members, even if their prestige, so-called, is low. That usefulness means providing services, one of which could very well be a phone. Other services are such things as providing uniforms for faculty teams, which the A.U.S. does; receiving incoming students which the A.U.S. does; and "going in the hole if necessary to provide social events for the members who pay for it."

Using society funds to pay for a banquet to which only 150 students are admitted is hardly fair—it is, in fact, misuse of funds. It is taxing people for services from which they do not in any way benefit. Why should John and Joe and Jack pay for a banquet to which only Jack is admitted? Similarly with the dance.

If expenses are not covered the people to pay will not be the dancers who enjoy the dance whether it is a financial success or not, but all the other members of the Society who have paid their compulsory dollar. Hardly fair, Mr. Editor. Finally, if the members of the Arts Undergraduates' Executive would like to discuss the matter further with the writer, his name and address are available at The Daily office. For very good reasons he can not submit them for publication. No personal slight or in-

The old woman hobbled down the road
Bitter in her age, and dry and hard
Like a bent stump drained of sap and scarred.

The flowers withered as she breathed
on them,
The earth turned grey and the grasses died,
And even ravens flew to hide.

I grew afraid of the ancient hag;
I too would warp if I dared to stay,
So I turned and ran and ran away.

I fell for breath by a mirrored lake,
And stooped to the crystal wine to drink—
I was that same old witch, I think.

Senior Basketball Team Defeats Shipmates by 37-26 Score

Redmen Maintain MBL Lead With Outstanding Display in Exciting Tilt

Greenberg, Goodwin Top Cagers; Davidson Banished for Fighting

By DAVE CLIMAN
McGill's Redmen Senior Red cagers came through again with a smashing victory over the luckless Shipmates by a score of 37-26 at Sir Arthur Currie Memorial Gymnasium last night. By this conquest the Redmen kept atop the MBL standing.

Before another packed house, the Redmen showed their superiority in a fast and rough game which kept the crowd in an uproar with its rapid excitement, especially during the second half.

Two match penalties were handed out, to Davidson of McGill and McClay of Shipmates, for fighting. These penalties were really undeserved as no blows were struck or hands even clenched. Only an exchange of menacing looks.

Dave Greenberg led the Red cagers, with a return to his old-time scoring form, by potting 12 points in last night's game against Shipmates.

Leading light for Red Ruvin'sky's Shipmates was Joe Brick, a "V" cast-off, who came through with a fine display of set shooting, mostly from the corners.

FIRST HALF
The game opened at a very slow pace and after Roth had swished the cords with a beautiful pivot, the Shipmates ran up a four-point lead on two baskets by McClay and one by Wesler.

Hoyle sank a free shot for McGill but Brick scored a fine set shot from the corner, followed by a succession of free shots for Shipmates, who sank three to make the score read 11-3 in their favor.

Goodwin and Greenberg came back with baskets to put McGill in the running. On a set shot by Miller of Shipmates, Goodwin, in attempting to bat the ball down, accidentally tipped it into his own basket.

He quickly avenged this mistake by sinking two set-ups and this was followed by a basket by Hoyle and free shots by Greenberg and Davidson to give McGill the lead for the first time in the game.

This was short lived as Blackburn potted one from the circle and Shipmates sank two free-shots. Davidson put McGill on an even footing again by dribbling down the floor and dropping in a layup just before the half-time buzzer sounded to make the score 17-17.

PLAY OPENS UP
Play became increasingly rapid at the start of the second half and excitement was maintained throughout. Greenberg scored two quick baskets, only to have Wesler and Blackburn retaliate for Shipmates. At this stage the so-called fracas took place and both participants were banished by referee Birchfield.

After this incident McGill began to run riot. Goodwin put in a free shot followed by Finlay who scored a spectacular long shot from the centre of the floor. Greenberg put in two more baskets while Goodwin and Shacter each sank one. Shipmates could only come back with a set-shot by Brick.

Shipmates played the last few seconds of the game with only four men as all the others had been either disqualified or removed for five fouls.

In the second game YMHA swamped Georgians 51-18. Proups scored 17 and Waxman 11, while Rosentzweig also starred. This win left the Blue squad in second place.

SIDE-LIGHTS
Another packed house again setting new attendance record. Vancouver, having the cream of Canadian hoopsters, wonders how we outdraw them on our local talent. . . . Phil Weisberg, ex-Shipmate, now a student at McGill was dressed by Coach Lou Davies, but did not play. . . . Lou Zalkind missing from line-up due to illness. . . . Referee Birchfield far too strict in his officiating, calling everything from the book. . . . Red Intermediates lost an exhibition game on the adjoining court to Southwestern "Y" by 44-41. . . . Nev Lefcoe has left for Interiors, for reasons unknown. . . . Senior practice on Friday. Goodwin had his glasses knocked off five times and was unable to find them without help each time.

DISA AND DATA
Next Senior game on Wednesday versus Georgians, followed by Middlebury on Saturday. . . . Pete

DAVE GREENBERG, who finally regained his shooting eye to garner 12 points in last night's game against Shipmates.

Red Water-Polo Team Plays K. of C. Tonight

The McGill Water Polo team will meet the Knights of Columbus team for the first time at 8.15 tonight in the Knights of Columbus pool. It will be a case of the speed of the McGill boys against the skill and experience of the older men. The McGill line-up is captained by Jeff Ince with Wood, Young, Paltiel, Brenhouse, Cooper, Benjamin, Fineberg and Mahon lining up for the Red and White.

Judging by the past performances of these two teams, the contest is expected to be very close. This is the first time that McGill has met the Knights of Columbus outfit, and it will also be the last. This game is the final game for the Montreal Water Polo League championship.

Dawson Inter-B's Set For Westhill Cagers

(Special to The Daily.)
St. Johns, Que., January 16.—Tig Chaloner, coach of Dawson's Intermediate "B" Basketball team has called his charges out for another practice tonight in preparation for their next game a week from tonight against the powerful West Hill aggregation.

This will be the fourth exhibition tilt for the "B" cagers. They have already beaten Baron Byng and Westmount High, and have lost only to the Dawson "A" squad.

"This is one game I'm really looking forward to," said Chaloner, "since it gives me a chance to match my team against my old school. Coach Sammy Gregg of the West-Hillians has a reputation for turning out a first rate squad, and we'll have to keep a sharp eye on those boys Lorne Rollo and Gordie Buck," or his own part, Chaloner is relying on the sharpshooting of Thompson, Lang and Fraser to rack up the points for the Dawson crew.

There are still places for two or three more men on the Dawson team, and if any of the new January class are interested they are asked to see Tig Chaloner at 5 o'clock in the gym on Thursday afternoon.

Finlay has amazed spectators with his consistency in sinking long shots from the centre of the floor. . . . Cliff McClay took a bad tumble over the McGill bench, but came up smiling. Real fighting spirit in that boy. . . . Red Ruvin'sky was strangely quiet last night. Probably due to his disqualification the week before. . . . Shipmates had terrible luck around the basket. . . . Goodwin scoring in his own basket, the second time this occurred in the MBL this year. . . . Ironical that Moe Abramowitz, "Y" coach, starts with Richman and Rosentzweig on the bench. Both boys have won the most valuable player award in this league.

Interfaculty Loop Gets Under Way Tonight

The first games of the Interfaculty Hockey League will be played tonight on the McTavish Rinks. At 5.15 Engineering faces Science, while an hour later Commerce takes on Grad aggregation.

It had been previously announced that the league was not to commence until next week, but this was an error and all the men intending to play for the above faculties are urged to turn out for the games tonight. If, for any reason, the faculties will be unable to ice a team, they are asked to get in touch with Scotty Watson at Ma. 3842.

All those interested in playing are asked to approach their faculty managers. Manager of the Commerce team is Dom McCance, for Engineering - Bob Felsted, for Science-Pirie, and for Grads-Crasie.

WAX AND TRACKS...

by
E. Turner Bone

On Sunday morning there will be a cross country race from Marguerite's to Nymark's in St. Sauveur. This will be a real endurance test as it is about a six mile course. It is about the same length as the Dartmouth trail so it will also serve as a guide to picking the Dartmouth team. Although such top-notch skiers as Art Bruneau, Don Stanforth and Bob Tildon will be absent there is still plenty of skiing talent around. It is sincerely hoped by the ski manager that there will be many competitors sporting the Red and White sweater in this competition.

The race starts at The Alpine Inn in St. Marguerite's. All packs and other superfluous equipment may be left in the Ski Shop and they will be transported by car to St. Sauveur. One of the attractions of this race will be the showers waiting for tired competitors at Nymark's.

All those who wish to enter should hand in their entries to Bob Everson as soon as possible. His telephone number is FI. 1301.

Intermediate "A" Squad Getting Into Condition Under Coach Henry

(Special to The Daily.)

The Dawson Intermediate "A" hockey team is beginning to take shape. Under the watchful eye of Playing-Coach Phil Henry, over 30 hopefuls have gone through their paces in practices held in the evenings this week. From this wealth of talent, there now remains 3 sets of defencemen, 4 forward lines and 4 men vying for the position of goalie, from which will be chosen the team to travel to Sherbrooke to meet Bishop's College Saturday night in the league opener.

Red Somers, Charlie Hayward, and many competitors are expected to enter this interfaculty meet and lists will be posted soon for skiers to sign if they intend to race.

WOMEN AT MIDDLEBURY

This weekend is an important one for the women's ski team. They are at Middlebury upholding the reputation of their Alma Mater against topflight American skiers. The team is composed of Dorothy and Margaret Burden, Joan Stanforth and Mary Powell. A men's team also will travel south of the border to race on Saturday and Sunday. This team consists of Don Stanforth, Art Bruneau, Bob Tildon and John

Intra-mural Athletics Organized at Dawson

Intra-mural basketball and badminton plans have been drawn up at Dawson and these two sports will be underway within a few weeks, it was announced yesterday by the athletics office. The basketball will be run on a building basis, since there are seven buildings on the campus occupied by male single students as well as two others containing the married personnel. A building may enter as many teams as it wishes, as long as each team has no more than one member of the Intermediate "A" squad on it. Applications must be in at the athletics office in the gymnasium by Saturday, January 19.

The basketball schedule can be efficiently run off due to the completion of a second cage court in the gymnasium. Four games per night can be played, and a schedule as large as the 104 game floor-hockey league is a possibility.

Badminton enthusiasts may bat the bird around each day in the morning and afternoon, and each evening after 10:00 p.m. There are four badminton courts in the gymnasium, and the nets are in the cupboard on the West side of the gym. A number of birdmen are already practising their skill, and may be observed exhausting themselves on the courts around midnight, at times.

Mixed sets are to be played on Friday evenings after 8:00 p.m., commencing with this Friday night.

Boxers Training For Competition Early Next Month

Coach Phillips Urges Pugnists to Turn Out At Weekly Practices

Having settled down to steady training after the festive season, the McGill Boxing Club is rapidly getting into shape under the watchful eye of Coach Irving Phillips. With the Interfaculty and Intercollegiate competitions rapidly approaching it, it is emphasized by the Coach that it is essential for all the boxers to turn out to every practice.

Phillips claims that it is impossible to pick any sort of a team unless he can watch the boys training and sparring at least at every practice. Seeing the team practices three times a week, he feels that the members should be able to come out to every practice.

The club offers a golden opportunity to any aspiring pugilists around the Campus, whether they are experienced or not. Under the tutelage of Phillips, it is relatively easy to pick up the fundamentals of the sport, and from then on it is up to the individual talents of the boxer to carry on as best as he can.

To give a few of the boys a little more tournament experience, Phillips is considering entering them in a show against some of the boxers from the YMHA, the benefits from which will go to a fund for the wounded veterans in the Montreal Military Hospital. This show will take place on January 20th at the YMHA gym.

Dawson Floor Hockey Loop Semi-finals Run Off During Past Week

Tengineers Beat Female Flashes As Hadley and Drummond Shine

St. Johns, Que., Jan. 16.—(Special to The Daily)—In the semi-finals of the Dawson Floor Hockey League played Monday and Tuesday nights the Engineers trounced the Female Flashes 14-8 on the two-game total goal series "A" while the Sidus assumed a six goal lead in series "B" by virtue of their 7-1 win over the agile B. H. Boys.

Volley-Ball Schedule Continues Tomorrow

Following is the remainder of the revised Intra-mural Volleyball Schedule. The league is now composed of three sections, the first with Arts and Science 1 and 2, Architecture, Commerce 1 and Grads. The second section consists of Arts and Science 3 and 4, Engineering 2, Commerce 2 and Dentistry. The third section has teams from Engineering 3 and 4, Medicine 1, Commerce 3 and 4, and Physical Ed.

Friday, January 18, 5.15: Arts and Science 3 and 4 vs. Engineering 2; Commerce 2 vs. Dentistry; 5.45: Engineering 3 and 4 vs. Medicine 1; Commerce 3 and 4 vs. Physical Ed.

Monday, January 21, 5.15: Arts and Science 1 and 2 vs. Commerce 1; 5.45: Architecture vs. Grads.

Friday, January 25, 5.15: Arts and Science 3 and 4 vs. Commerce 2; Engineering 2 vs. Dentistry; 5.45: Engineering 3 and 4 vs. Commerce 3 and 4, Medicine 1 vs. Physical Ed.

Monday, January 28, 5.15: Arts and Science 1 and 2 vs. Grads; 5.45: Architecture vs. Commerce 1. Friday, February 1, 5.15: Arts and Science 3 and 4 vs. Dentistry; Engineering 2 vs. Commerce 1; 5.45: Engineering 3 and 4 vs. Physical Ed., Medicine 1 vs. Commerce 3 and 4.

Monday night the Tengineers proved too much for the potent Female Flashes who took an early lead on goals by "Hap" Hadley and burly Frank Mingle which they did not relinquish through the series. In the first game the score was 8-4 and the next night, despite desperate efforts of the Flashes' manager "Gino" Pierson to bolster his team by sending ace goaler "Red" Timmins to the forward line, the fast Tengineers racked up another 6-4 decision. The Flashes were without "Harpo" Knowlton who has sinus trouble, and using "Stinky" Worden was not enough to stop the flood. Scoring stars for the Tengineers were Hadley with 6, "Driller" Drummond who tallied four times, and Ken Bullock who hit the payoff section twice.

The only really effective man for the Flashes was "Flying Fritz" Fraser who scored 6 times, although "Weak-eyes" Wake and "Basher" Bourke played powerful defensive games.

Sidus Beat B.H. Boys

Tuesday night the Sidus upset the favoured B.H. Boys as "Hammerhead" Cameron and "Senator" Hugessen sparked their team to victory. The game opened with the two teams, which did not meet each other in regular league play, playing very cautiously. Goals by Leslie and "Sunny Jim" O'Connor opened the game up and at the end of the second period the score read 6-0. The teams were very tired in the third period and St. Croix spoiled "Tee-square" Daglish's shut-out in the Sidus nets. "Hammerhead" Cameron got this one back later on a beautiful solo

The two teams met again last night but at the time of going to press the result was not known. ### Resident Students—1

"Sleeping Quarters" contain a multitude of dull, but important laws, and are designed, in part, to cut down on the preparation of home-cooked meals in the dormitories, and of the football and floor-hockey games in other rooms.

Section "Dining Hall" is directed against those individuals who attempt to deprive the dietician of their ration books, the late-comers for meals, those lazy individuals who leave their dishes on the tables, and those others who are attempting to establish too friendly relations with the girls behind the counter, while eating.

Late-comers to lectures, and those many who prefer an extra hour's sleep in the mornings to 9.00 a.m. classes are warned in the next section, while the last two paragraphs have to do with the many varied facilities and amusements available to the students.

Copies of the regulations are available at the office, and a number of regulations regarding fines

WOMEN VETERANS' X-RAYS

Women veterans who are just now entering the University must have chest X-rays. These will be done on Thursday, January 17 from 2 to 4 p.m., at the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium. The responsibility is yours, please attend to it.

CCF Representatives Named For Classes and Faculties

In order that all wishing to join the CCF Club may do so at their convenience, representatives have been named for various classes and faculties.

It is to be emphasized that the McGill CCF Club is NOT in any way affiliated to the CCF Party. Membership is open to any student not a member of any other political clubs.

Students wishing to join may procure application forms from class representatives. Club dues are $0.25 and may be paid to Donald Patterson at Club meetings or to Tom Harbottle on the Dawson campus.

The present campaign is being conducted in order that all those sympathetic to the CCF may be able to participate in the election of the executive later this month.

St. Francis Xavier Broadcasts Sing Song

Antigonish, N.S., January 16.—(CUP)—While the prospect of mid-term examinations which are looming ominously over the heads of St. Francis Xavier University students, has definitely put a damper on student activities, one enthusiastic group called a temporary halt on the plugging to take part in a lively sing song broadcast over the local radio station CJFX.

The program was under the direction of the Reverend Mr. M. E. McLaughlin, who has only recently returned from service as a chaplain overseas. A student of the University, Mike Cashin, was Master of Ceremonies. So successful was the affair that it is to become a regular weekly feature on the local station.

Freshman... Follies

by ann n' sorryl

Something new has been added! At the corner of University and Milton streets a luscious green shack has sprung up with pictures of everything from Lana Turner to Marshall Zhukov plastered over its exterior. This is obviously a magazine stand. Anyway, if the janitor should happen to be cleaning up Moyses Hall after English 2, we hope he won't be surprised to find copies of "Snappy Stories" or "Nifty Gags" strewn under the seats. (Only ten cents a copy.)

Our first taste of writing McGill exams was a bitter one, we must admit. To be seated on a rickety chair, writing on a sloping desk, alternately freezing from the open windows and expiring from the steaming radiators is hardly an atmosphere conducive to higher mental activity of the prefrontal lobes. Just as you finally manage to scribble down a few shaky facts, you suddenly find yourself squirming miserably under the hawklike gazes of the vigilantes. Glancing suspiciously at every move you make and coyly peering at you through slyly concealed mirrors around the room, they make you forget anything you might have studied. "Oh Death, Where is Thy Sting?"

Culture is coming back. A new movement is underway to try to educate us "stodents" in the higher arts. The latest fad is to walk around clutching a volume of Homer and uttering spasmodic "hic, haec, hoc." But music is without doubt the greatest of all arts. But much as I love and admire Hayden, Mozart and Spike Jones, does The Daily have to print that out of four well-known musicians every day?

Raccoon coats to the right of you, beaver coats to the left of you—everywhere you go these days you see skinned animals adorning the female figure. But don't be too alarmed some day if you suddenly find yourself walking behind a dainty miss with a huge imposing pair of shoulders and size 13 over-shoes. It's just a certain professor who is dressed in the latest style. . . . What men won't wear these days! . . .

Walking through the balmy sunlight a few days ago and commenting blithely, "It's just like spring," we were suddenly startled into thinking it actually was, by the loud call of "fore!" and the whizzing of a golf ball over our heads which landed neatly on the green in front of the engineering building. The weather certainly affects people queerly, and these premature Byron Nelsons are no doubt back in hibernation again today.

This is a farewell to the Union Grill Room with a special address to their tasty sandwiches. Since October, after every meal, we heard peculiar grating noises in the region of our digestive system. Now this feeling has become more definite, and for the past week we have been limping around the campus doubled up in agony. So goodbye you cheese sandwiches and sandpapery peanut butters. We are going on a diet of arsenic and potassium cyanide.

Case No. 114. What is a sick wolf? Ans. A soldier who takes a turn for the nurse.

Case No. 139. At the medical meeting you made a statement and explained it as a paradox. What is a paradox? Ans. Two physicians.

Case No. 157. Why do you place wedding rings in the same class as tourniquets? Ans. Like tourniquets, wedding rings stop your circulation.

A general meeting of the McGill Players' Club will be held today at 5 p.m. in the Players' Club Room of the McGill Union. All members are urged to attend.

'Electrics in Navy' Is Theme of Talk

Cmdr. N. G. Burchell To Speak Tomorrow In Engineering Bldg.

Commander N. G. Burchell, R.C.N., will present the film-illustrated topic "Electrics in the Navy" at 5 p.m. in Room 33 of the Engineering Building tomorrow evening. He will also amplify the navy department's plan to commission, in the permanent force, a selected number of graduates trained in electricity.

The Engineering Undergraduate Society, who have invited this prominent naval research authority, expressed the view that the film and talk contains many interesting features apart from the strictly technical details involved. War-born instruments such as radar and asdic will be exemplified in their operational sense, and with this in mind the E.U.S. is inviting all students interested.

An indication of the interest aroused in the film-presentation of "Electrics in the Navy" is the report that universities all across Canada are invited Cmdr. Burchell to their camp. Others to express their interest are the Canadian Institute of Engineers, and Cmdr. Burchell will meet the Montreal branch after addressing the McGill students.

DATES COMMITTEE NOTICE

Every campus organization, athletic or otherwise, must fill out duplicate application forms for the Dates Committee of the Students' Executive Council, when planning any function open to students. These application forms are available in the office of Mr. G. H. Fletcher, in the McGill Union. When filled out as required, they must be left in the Dates Committee's file, and will be reviewed every Wednesday.

The Dates Committee of the Students' Executive Council has been given full power by the Council to ratify or reject any application "to hold any entertainment, or other social functions, in the Union or other University building." This is being done as a service to the Students' Society, so as to avoid conflict of events planned for coincident dates. According to Article VII. 5, of the Students' Society Constitution, the power delegated by the Council to its Dates Committee includes survey over functions classed as "House Dances" in the University Residences.

The Committee may, by the Students' Society, Constitution, reject any application, or forward the same, "with its recommendations, to the Principal." This will be done through a four-member committee of the McGill University Senate.

It must be emphasized that when an organization plans to hold an event in the McGill Union, both the requirements of the Union and of the Dates Committee must be met. In other words, no entry in the Dates Book of the Union can be ratified by the Union House Committee unless the okayed application form of the Council's Dates Committee is presented at the Tuck Shop. The Council's Dates Committee does not extend its jurisdiction to such minor functions as small club or executive luncheon meetings, nor (for the time being) to any event not occurring after 6 p.m.

Scheduled events officially ratified by the Dates Committee will be published from time to time in a special "box" on page four of The McGill Daily.

The printed application forms leave room for all communications to the Committee concerning any particular function. This form includes the following items: Date of application, date of Function, Time, Place, Organization, President, Type of Function, Attendance expected, Remarks, and Signature.

Members of the Dates Committee at present are: Merelle Cayford, president of the Women's Union; Allan Knight, chairman of the Students' Athletics Council, and H. A. Richter, president of the McGill Union.
